G. Russell Case, 2012
Oil on canvas, 48" x 60"

The original oil painting by noted Utah artist G. Russell Case, commissioned by the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation in 2012, resides in the board room of the Foundation's 14th Floor offices at 79 S. Main Street in Salt Lake City. It is representational of the Foundation's deep roots in the state of Utah, the legacy of its founders, and its continuing commitment to the state's treasured history, lands and people dating back to its earliest beginnings.

The Vermilion Cliffs are the "second step" in the five-step Grand Staircase of the Colorado Plateau in Southern Utah and Northern Arizona. Designated part of Vermilion Cliffs National Monument in 2000, their scenic splendor includes some of the most beautiful – and frequently photographed – geologic formations in the world. They represented an important route used by settlers traveling from Utah to Arizona during the 19th Century. Today, U.S. Hwy. 89A follows the historic wagon route past the cliffs and up the Kaibab Plateau.

Oil portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles by Houston artist Robert Joy, circa 1955. Mrs. Eccles, a native of Houston, Texas, was especially fond of Mr. Joy's portraiture. The portraits reside today in the board room of the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation offices.

to Come!

ON THE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE GEORGE S. AND DOLORES DORÉ ECCLES FOUNDATION, THIS BOOK COMMEMORATES ITS EXTRAORDINARY IMPACT ON THE LIVES OF ALL UTAHNS. CREATED BY MR. AND MRS. ECCLES IN 1958, THE FOUNDATION BECAME MORE ACTIVE FOLLOWING THE PASSING OF MR. ECCLES IN 1982, AND IT WAS THEN LED BY MRS. ECCLES UNTIL HER DEATH IN 1994. THE STORY OF THIS REMARKABLE COUPLE, AND THE RESULTS OF WHAT THEY CREATED MORE THAN A HALF-CENTURY AGO, ARE ROOTED IN THE FORESIGHT, CHARITABLE INTERESTS AND “JOY OF GIVING” THAT WERE HALLMARKS OF THE ACTIVE PARTNERSHIP THEY SHARED. AS THE IMPACT OF THEIR GENEROSITY - NOW EXCEEDING $600 MILLION - CONTINUES TO MULTIPLY A THOUSAND-FOLD, SO, ALSO, DOES THE MEASURE OF GOODNESS IT EXTENDS TO THEIR FELLOW CITIZENS OF UTAH. INDEED – EVEN AFTER SIX DECADES – THE BEST IS YET TO COME.

LEGACY

THE GEORGE S. AND DOLORES DORÉ ECCLES FOUNDATION REMAINS THE MOST VISIBLE REFLECTION OF THE LEGACY OF MR. AND MRS. ECCLES AND FIRST SECURITY CORPORATION, WHICH HE LED FOR MORE THAN FOUR DECADES. IT WAS THE NATION'S OLDEST AND LARGEST

OPERATING MULTI-STATE BANK HOLDING COMPANY AT THE TIME OF ITS HISTORIC MERGER WITH WELLS FARGO IN 2000. FIRST SECURITY'S CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS WERE LOCATED ON THE CORNER OF 100 SOUTH AND MAIN STREET IN DOWNTOWN SALT LAKE CITY – THE CAPITAL CITY'S HISTORIC "BANKING CORNER" WHERE A BANK HAS STOOD SINCE 1875 WHEN THE DESERET NATIONAL BANK OPENED ON THE SITE WITH BRIGHAM YOUNG AS ITS PRESIDENT. TODAY, IT IS HOME NOT ONLY TO A WELLS FARGO & CO. BANK BRANCH, BUT ALSO TO THE OFFICES OF THE GEORGE S. AND DOLORES DORÉ ECCLES FOUNDATION.

The legacy of George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles will forever be linked with the vitality of the State of Utah. For nearly half a century, through their community leadership and remarkable philanthropy, this dynamic couple made a lasting impact that has continued to foster the growth and success of the state and its citizens. Today, the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation furthers the goals of its founders as it strengthens communities and enriches the lives of Utahns through its ongoing charitable support of the arts, education, health and wellness, social services, historic preservation and the environment.

George Stoddard Eccles (1900-1982) was Chairman & CEO of First Security Corporation (now Wells Fargo) for more than four decades, leading not only the nation's first operating bank holding company and multi-state banking empire, but also playing an active part in national and international business and banking. A son of pioneering Utah industrialist David Eccles and his wife Ellen Stoddard Eccles, he was raised in Logan, Utah. After attending Utah State University and the University of California at Berkeley, he earned his business degree in 1922 from Columbia University in New York City. It was there he met fellow student Dolores Doré (1902-1994), a native of Houston, Texas, affectionately known to her friends and family as "Lolie." After graduation, George began his career at New York City's Irving Bank & Trust, one of the city's major financial institutions at the time. Later that year, he returned to Utah to accept a leadership role with his family's banks and to help establish First Security Corporation. He and Dolores were married three years later in 1925, and they lived for many years in Ogden, Utah, the location of First Security's headquarters. They moved to Salt Lake City in 1953, when First Security's headquarters also moved from Ogden to Utah's capital city.

Mr. and Mrs. Eccles were strong, social and spirited individuals whose interests ranged from the arts and community causes to personal activities such as traveling, tennis, golf and skiing. During their 57 years together, they were among Utah's most generous civic leaders and benefactors who joined with countless others in statewide causes for the betterment of all Utahns. Following the death of George Eccles in 1982, Mrs. Eccles continued to take an active part in leading their foundation until her own passing in 1994 at the age of 91.

Through their active community involvement and First Security leadership, they devoted themselves with passion and determination to strengthening the economic and cultural vitality of their state. They were a force for civic growth, giving of their advice, time, energy and means on behalf of nonprofits that have benefitted the state for decades. Today, each and every grant awarded by the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation remains a shining example of their legacy of generosity to their fellow Utahns.

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

I can't help but be an optimist! I love Utah. I believe in our communities. I firmly believe in our people and especially our youth, who represent the future of our state. I feel greatly blessed to be a Utahn and an American. I am proud of our strong values of compassion, integrity and hard work, and of our rich Western heritage – all of which set the stage for a promising future that gives each of us an opportunity to make a meaningful difference.

I was fortunate to be born into a family that believes in the importance of giving back and doing our best to leave things better than we found them. I was also taught that we can make an even greater impact by joining together with others. It's a tradition that began more than a century ago with my pioneering industrialist grandfather, David Eccles. In his more than 100 entrepreneurial business endeavors, he chose to “never go it alone.” Partnerships – working and sharing together – were part and parcel of his business philosophy and a hallmark of his success. With that success came the chance to share with others: his partners, employees, customers, and individuals and families throughout Utah, especially those in need.

My Uncle George, together with Aunt Lolie, built on his father’s legacy throughout their lives and then, with foresight and generosity, created a foundation to carry on their philanthropic vision, entrusting us – the next generation – to build upon that legacy. It is a humbling responsibility, but one to which Lisa, Bob and I are deeply committed.

Today, in guiding the Foundation, we feel fortunate to work together with so many wonderful people – community leaders and citizens, volunteers and nonprofits – who are doing incredible work “down in the trenches” each and every day to meet the needs of so many. Through the dedication and great work of these philanthropic partners, vital needs are met ... challenges are addressed ... artistic expression is inspired ... and the lives of those from every walk of life, in every corner of our state, are enriched and uplifted.

Since the Foundation became most active 35 years ago, we have been privileged to invest more than $600 million throughout the State of Utah. It has been rewarding to be part of impactful projects that truly make a difference for those who call Utah home, whether through ...

- a new community park for the children of Tabiona;
- funding for college scholarships statewide;
- health care for the homeless at the Fourth Street Clinic;
- preservation of irreplaceable wetlands and wildlife at the Great Salt Lake;
- building a place to call home through Habitat for Humanity;
- inspiring students to love history through the “magic” of Hamilton at the Eccles Theater;
- or supporting lifesaving care for a toddler at Primary Children’s Hospital.

These, and so many more examples like them, represent the depth and breadth of our decades-long partnership with the people of Utah.

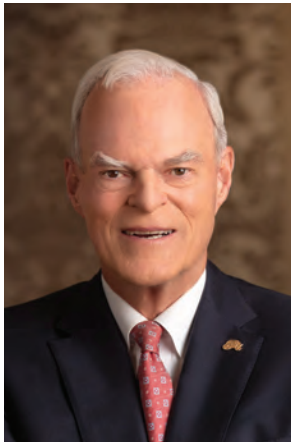

We extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who have helped us reach this milestone in our history. We look forward to our continued work with all of you – our fellow Utahns – as we strive to address the challenges and embrace the opportunities that lie before us. Together, with optimism, we can ensure an even brighter future for our state in which, yes ... the best is yet to come!

Spencer F. Eccles
Chairman & CEO

SPENCER FOX ECCLES

Chairman & CEO

Many people call him a philanthropist. Spence Eccles calls himself a banker and businessman. “And,” he will quickly add, “a ski racer, rancher, husband, father, grandfather, and, yes, of course ... a ‘Utah Man, Sir!’” In every aspect of his life, this true native son of the West gives his time and resources generously to continue his family’s long-held traditions of community involvement and support.

Born and raised in Ogden, he’s a proud grandson of enterprising Utah industrialist David Eccles on his father’s side, and rugged Wyoming cattle rancher Benjamin Fox on his mother’s. He manages to further both family legacies with ease, inspiring his children and grandchildren to build and expand businesses at one moment, while branding cattle the next. “Grandfather Fox rode with Buffalo Bill’s historic Wild West Show,” he recalls with a twinkle of envy in his eye, “and my mum was Miss Utah of her father’s Ogden Wild West Rodeo. Those traditions mean a lot!”

As a banker and businessman, Spence led First Security Corporation – the Eccles family’s banking empire – for nearly two decades as its Chairman & CEO until its historic merger with Wells Fargo in 2000. With degrees in Banking and Finance from the University of Utah and Columbia, followed by banking experience at Citibank in New York and First Security in Boise, he was well-prepared when recruited by his Uncles Marriner and George to lead the family banking enterprise. His leadership in the wider business community has extended to many corporate boards, and he also remains active in banking organizations and as Chairman Emeritus of Wells Fargo’s Intermountain Banking Region.

As a philanthropist, Spence is Chairman & CEO of the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation, and serves as Chairman or a board member of four other Eccles family foundations.

Spence’s legendary loyalty to the University of Utah is rooted in his student days when he was active in Beta Theta Pi fraternity, was a four-year letterman and All American on the U’s Ski Team, and met Cleone Peterson of Fairview, Utah, with whom he shared more than 55 years of marriage until her passing in 2013. His generosity and enthusiasm for the U have never wavered, nor has his dedication to the success of winter sports in Utah, especially for youth. His unmatched support of the 2002 Winter Olympics was recognized by the IOC with its highest honor, the Pierre de Coubertin Award. Among his many awards are the Salt Lake Chamber’s “Giant in our City,” Envision Utah’s Common Good Award and eight honorary doctorates.

Spence and his Aunt Lolie at the 1989 Ground Breaking of the Dolores Doré Eccles Broadcast Center, home to KUED-7 and KUER-FM 90.1

The valuable perspectives Spence brings to his leadership have grown from deep Utah roots, which he has combined with his own great enthusiasm and love for his state as he carries on his family’s legacy of giving.

LISA ECCLES

President & COO

“It’s been such a privilege to be a part of this Foundation,” says Lisa Eccles, reflecting on nearly 30 years of involvement and leadership. She recalls with affection her early days at the Foundation when she worked closely with her Aunt Lolie and admired her compassion for others and her gentle way of giving back to a community for which she cared so deeply. “Aunt Lolie particularly believed in the power of the arts to bring joy and beauty to our lives, to improve our well-being, and to help create rich, vibrant communities,” Lisa says. “It is her vision, along with that of my Uncle George, that inspires my work every day.”

Serving at the helm of the Foundation’s day-to-day operations since 1989, Lisa has had an up-close perspective on the varied missions, growing needs, and creative solutions of Utah’s nonprofit organizations. She recognizes the critical services they provide to address challenges, and works in tandem with nonprofit executives, community leaders and fellow grantmakers to identify and support innovative, impactful programs across the state. In doing so, she oversees the Foundation’s statewide program that awards grants to more than 400 nonprofits each year, always looking to ensure the best use and wise stewardship of the resources that the Foundation invests in Utah’s future.

A graduate of the University of Utah with an Art History degree, Lisa has enjoyed serving in the state’s arts and cultural communities, including on the boards of numerous organizations. Also, at her alma mater, she has served on its Board of Trustees and advisory boards for the College of

Dolores Eccles and Lisa Eccles, 1992

Fine Arts and Natural History Museum of Utah. Lisa brings valued insights to the Foundation’s decision-making through her active community outreach, her decades-long work with nonprofits across the state and, perhaps most importantly, her personal relationship with the founders, her great-aunt and great-uncle. With a deep understanding of their vision and legacy of generosity, she says, “It’s an honor for me to represent my generation in ensuring that their tradition of giving continues.”

ROBERT M. GRAHAM

Secretary, Treasurer & General Counsel

Growing up in the small town of Fairview, located in central Utah's Sanpete County, Bob Graham developed an extraordinary work ethic, strong character and deep belief in the value of "doing for others." In addition, his mother's lifelong career as a first-grade teacher inspired his commitment to education – both his own and the opportunities he generously provides through his philanthropy for others to reach their educational goals.

Following graduation from North Sanpete High School, Bob earned his Associate's degree from Snow College in Ephraim, Utah, his Bachelor's degree from BYU, and his Juris Doctorate from the University of Utah College of Law. As he tells it, his real success at Snow College was meeting his future wife, Joyce Sorensen, with whom he would share a "perfect" marriage. Their 60 years together were enriched by community and church service, worldwide travel, and three daughters and their families that now include 11 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. A cancer survivor for many years, Joyce passed away in 2013.

Bob began his successful, 28-year career as a tax partner with Haskins & Sells (now Deloitte and Touche). In doing so, he became a trusted advisor to a wide array of civic and business leaders alike, including George S. Eccles. In the late 1980s, with the encouragement of Mr. Eccles, Bob joined the law firm of Ray Quinney & Nebeker as well as the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation. He was named to the Board of Directors in 2000, and continues to play a vital role at the Foundation in financial management, legal affairs and grant-making programs.

As an active member of Utah's philanthropic community, Bob also serves on the Board of Directors of the Nora Eccles Treadwell Foundation and the Florence Gillmor Foundation. During a career that now spans almost six decades, Bob has also served his community with leadership roles on several boards, including Deseret Book, Primary Children's Hospital, the Governor's Tax Review Commission, and as president of the Salt Lake Rotary Club. He would be the first to tell you, however, that nothing has meant more to him than the roles he has cherished most: husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

Bob's daughters (l to r) Teri Ferney, Diane Smith and Carolyn Buma, join him next to the portrait of their parents in the Robert M. and Joyce S. Graham Science Center at Snow College, which was dedicated on October 11, 2017.

Arts and Culture

A passionate interest in the arts and culture, including arts education, inspired George and Dolores Eccles to generously support music, dance, theater, the visual arts and other forms of artistic and cultural enrichment during their lifetimes. The Foundation has continued to build on that tradition through its grants – large and small alike – in support of Utah’s flagship arts organizations as well as small, local, community-based initiatives and programs. Each enriches opportunities for individuals, especially youth, throughout Utah to benefit from the vital part the arts play in their lives, while also strengthening the cultural offerings so critical to the overall economic vitality and diverse social vibrancy of the state.

GEORGE S. AND DOLORES DORÉ ECCLES THEATER

October 21, 2016, marked the gala Grand Opening of downtown Salt Lake City's new state-of-the-art George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Theater, made possible through a public-private funding partnership led by a grant of $15 million from the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation. In this extraordinary theater and gathering place, Utahns and visitors alike enjoy enlightening, world-class performances that open new worlds, ideas and experiences for audiences of all ages.

The theater's inaugural season attracted more than 350,000 patrons – unprecedented numbers even in the state of Utah where citizens attend more performing arts events than anywhere else in the nation (2016 Americans for the Arts study). Says Steve Boulay of the theater's producing partner, MagicSpace Entertainment, "The Eccles far surpassed our initial hopes for its programming, attendance and economic impact!" It has garnered large audiences for musicians and speakers such as Johnny Mathis, Neil DeGrasse Tyson, David Sedaris and others, and its first two seasons of touring Broadway shows included packed houses for productions such as The Lion King, Phantom of the Opera and the landmark hit, Hamilton: An American Musical, during one of its earliest nationwide tours. With tickets for every performance of its month-long run selling out in less than four hours, the production garnered an enthusiastic 80,000+ patrons.

Spencer F. Eccles was joined on stage by Salt Lake City Mayor Jackie Biskupski and Salt Lake County Mayor Ben McAdams at the Grand Opening Gala of the new George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Theater in downtown Salt Lake City. The new state-of-the-art performance venue features a stage and technology that accommodate the Broadway touring productions Utahns love.

#EduHam

Without a doubt, the “hot ticket” in Salt Lake City in spring 2018 was for Hamilton: An American Musical. Thanks to EduHam – the allied Hamilton Education Program – more than 2,000 high school students from throughout Utah experienced first-hand what all the hype was about! They spent weeks studying Alexander Hamilton and the nation’s founding era as part of their history curriculum. The program was made possible through a public-private funding partnership between the State of Utah and private donors, including the Foundation. Following the path Lin-Manuel Miranda took in developing his Tony-winning hip-hop musical, many students created original works – poems, raps, songs, essays or dances – based on an event or historical figure from our nation’s founding, and competed to represent their schools. On May 4, 2018, twelve regional winners performed on the Eccles Theater stage to rave reviews from their fellow high-schoolers and Hamilton cast members before enjoying a performance of the blockbuster musical. American history – never before so popular on social media or in high school halls – has now made a lasting impact on the youth of Utah!

LEGACY PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

RIRIE-WOODBURY DANCE COMPANY

The Foundation's tradition of annual support for Ririe-Woodbury Dance Company began in 1984 with a grant to help fund the Company's performance tour to Asia. Since then, the directors have remained committed to the success of this innovative contemporary dance company, founded in 1964 by Joan Woodbury and Shirley Ririe, both professors of dance at the University of Utah. Today, it has grown into an internationally renowned company of artistic excellence that showcases its works at home and throughout the world.

UTAH MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

The Foundation's steadfast support of the Utah Museum of Fine Arts at the University of Utah, totaling more than $5.4 million, continues to foster its growing reputation for excellence and innovation as Utah's official fine arts museum. A grant for the Dolores Doré Eccles-Frank Sanguinetti Exhibition Wing honors the close friendship of Mrs. Eccles and Mr. Sanguinetti, the museum's founding director. Most recently, the Foundation supported the museum's campaign for the renovation of the Marcia and John Price Museum Building where it makes its home, and the enhanced display of its magnificent collections.

Through the years . . .

1982 GINA BACHAUER INTERNATIONAL
PIANO FOUNDATION

The Gina Bachauer piano competition, a favorite of Dolores Eccles, brings world-class pianists to Utah to compete for its prestigious awards. The Foundation's support for its international competitions and allied programs, which began in 1982, has continued for more than 30 years. Today, grants assist with artistic seasons annually, including not only its competitions but also the concert series and its Music-In-Our-Schools education program.

1996 UTAH SYMPHONY |
UTAH OPERA

*Dolores Eccles

friend, beloved
Utah Symphony
conductor
Maurice Abravanel, 1975*

Furthering a tradition that began with Dolores Eccles, the Foundation awarded a major grant of $450,000 in support of the Utah Symphony and $150,000 to Utah Opera to sponsor "Carmen" in 1996. This marked the beginning of a decades-long tradition of generous support for both organizations, which merged in 2002.

1998 GEORGE S. AND DOLORES DORÉ
ECCLES CENTER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS

The Foundation awarded $1,050,000 to the Park City Institute for the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Center for the Performing Arts at Park City High School, funded through a public-private partnership to benefit the school and wider community. It annually hosts hundreds of performers and is the venue for the Sundance Film Festival's annual Park City Opening Night, as well as festival screenings. Thousands of students also benefit from world-class performances, guest lecturers, master classes and more.

UTAH SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

According to Fred Adams, Utahns and appreciative audiences from around the nation and world “owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to the Eccles Foundation for making the difference” in the festival’s ability to grow and prosper. With new, state-of-the-art theater facilities supported by a major challenge grant from the Foundation, the Tony Award-winning festival has continued to grow and thrive, both as one of the world’s most admired Shakespeare companies, and as one of Southern Utah’s most effective economic engines, a major contributor to the economic vitality of Cedar City and Southern Utah.

“Your kindness and contributions have been instrumental to making this Festival a success!”

Fred Adams, Founder
Utah Shakespeare Festival

BALLET WEST

A new production of Willam Christensen’s The Nutcracker premiered at the Janet Quinney Lawson Capitol Theatre on December 2, 2017, to rave reviews and record-setting audiences throughout the holidays. Made possible through a $2 million grant from the Foundation, the enhanced production of the ballet, created by “Mr. C” as he was known by good friends, including George and Dolores Eccles, now enjoys new sets, exquisite costumes and special effects. The grant extended the Foundation’s tradition of support for Ballet West, totaling nearly $18 million, which annually funds its live orchestral accompaniment so essential to world-class ballet. With a special invitation from The Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., Ballet West will perform The Nutcracker there in early December 2018, bringing this new production of the holiday classic to audiences in the nation’s capital.

SUNDANCE INSTITUTE

Foundation board members Alonzo "Lon" Watson, Jr. and Spence Eccles with Sundance Institute Founder Robert Redford, celebrating the Foundation's support for Sundance Children's Programming, 1990. Mr. Watson, who passed away in 2005, was a valued member of the Foundation's board for more than 20 years.

Long before the annual Sundance Film Festival became a household word in Utah and around the world, the Foundation was assisting Robert Redford and his new Sundance Institute through board involvement and financial support, assisting it with the true "nuts and bolts" of independent filmmaking: editing facilities, screening rooms, children's theatre programming and outdoor facilities, filmmaker labs and more. This partnership continues to benefit Utah in significant ways, as both the institute and festival remain vital elements in the success of Utah's arts community and the growth of the state's economy.

UTAH SYMPHONY | UTAH OPERA

In 2012, the Foundation's four-year commitment of $6 million to the Utah Symphony | Utah Opera set the stage for the success of its capital campaign, the Symphony's 75th Anniversary and the Opera's 40th Anniversary celebrations, spanning two seasons. The Foundation's decades-long leadership and annual financial support of the organization also provided essential funding for the free concerts at Utah's five National Parks through its 2015 "Mighty Five" and 2017 "Great American Road Trip" during the Centennial of the National Parks. The Foundation's support has played an essential role in its ability to grow and thrive.

2000 BALLET WEST

The Foundation awarded a $2 million grant to Ballet West to assist in funding its expanded rehearsal studios and facilities at the new Jessie Eccles Quinney Center for Dance, adjacent to the Janet Quinney Lawson Capitol Theatre. The grant was made in tribute to the late Willam Christensen, founder of Ballet West and a longtime friend of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles.

2001 UTAH MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

The Marcia and John Price Museum Building – the new home of the Utah Museum of Fine Arts – opened on the University of Utah campus in 2001. A $2 million grant from the Foundation funded the building's Dolores Doré Eccles-Frank Sanguinetti Wing, named in memory and honor of the many years of deep friendship shared by Mrs. Eccles and the museum's founding director.

2002 DIXIE STATE UNIVERSITY

Dixie State University in St. George received a $3 million grant from the Foundation to construct the Dolores Doré Eccles Fine Arts Center, designed to provide a home for its College of the Arts. The center's award-winning architectural design offers three performance venues – including a 300-seat recital hall and 500-seat main stage – and all the facilities needed for its active music, dance and theater departments, including the DSU Jazz Band, multiple choirs, and annual theatrical productions, among others.

2006 CAINE COLLEGE OF THE ARTS,
UTAH STATE UNIVERSITY

The Foundation joined Utah State University to celebrate its support for the new Russell/Wanlass Performance Hall. Its namesakes – the late Manon Caine Russell and Kathryn Caine Wanlass – were nieces of George S. Eccles.

2008 ARTSPACE

A last-dollar grant of $300,000 from the Foundation completed funding for Artspace's newest mixed-use residential/commercial development on Salt Lake City's west side, further revitalizing the neighborhood with affordable housing and local arts-related retail spaces. The Foundation's ongoing partnerships with Artspace, dating back to 1983, have assisted in funding its projects from the artist studios/living units at the Pierpont Project to those such as the Artspace Bridge Projects, Solar Gardens, Macaroni Flats and more.

2011 PIONEER THEATRE COMPANY,
UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

In 2011, Pioneer Theatre Company (PTC) began welcoming its out-of-town cast members to stay at Meldrum House, thanks to a major gift from long-time theatre-goers Cathie and Peter Meldrum and support from many others, including $100,000 from the Foundation. In conjunction with Cowboy Partners, PTC renovated the former 1907 dormitory/apartment building at 200 South and 1300 East, preserving its historic exterior while transforming it into an inviting "home away from home" for the many talented actors who travel to Salt Lake City from New York, Los Angeles and cities in between.

2012 MOAB MUSIC FESTIVAL

With annual Foundation sponsorships dating back to 1994, the Moab Music Festival celebrated its 20th Anniversary in 2012 with its trademark chamber music, jazz, and traditional concerts offered each September by professional musicians in the dramatic red rock outdoor settings of Southern Utah.

2013 CATHEDRAL OF THE MADELEINE/ECCLES ORGAN FESTIVAL

The year 2013 marked the 20th Anniversary of the Eccles Organ Festival at Salt Lake City's Cathedral of the Madeleine. Since its founding, the Foundation has provided ongoing sponsorships for the annual festival, which showcases world-class organists and the Cathedral's handcrafted English pipe organ, acquired through a $750,000 grant from the Foundation as part of the Cathedral's restoration in 1989-93.

2018 ELLEN ECCLES THEATRE/ CACHE VALLEY CENTER FOR THE ARTS

January 2018 marked the 25th Anniversary of the restoration of Logan, Utah's historic Ellen Eccles Theatre, made possible by the Foundation's $2 million grant in 1991. The theatre – named in memory of George's mother, Ellen Stoddard Eccles, who lived on Center Street in Logan – hosts a wide array of concerts and productions enjoyed by Cache County residents and visitors alike. The Foundation continues to provide annual sponsorship support for the theatre, and awarded $1 million in 2017 for additional upgrades to its facilities.

Community

Whether fighting hunger, homelessness and addiction; fostering urban planning, revitalization and affordable housing; building parks and playgrounds; assisting victims of abuse and neglect; supporting youth camps and programs for those with disabilities; providing legal support for the disadvantaged; or offering after-school initiatives for at-risk youth ... the Foundation directors make it a priority to support the dedicated teams of administrators, volunteers and fellow contributors who are strengthening communities and setting the course for Utah's bright future. Throughout Utah, grants from the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation address the societal needs of individuals and families from every walk of life, and foster new opportunities for enriching lives in a myriad of ways. The directors are pleased to partner with nonprofit organizations to make a lasting difference for the citizens in every corner of the state – from newborns to seniors.

BOYS & GIRLS CLUBS

Spencer F. Eccles

Spence Eccles and a club member during his chairmanship of the Sugar House Club campaign in the 1980s

Since the early 1980s, the Boys & Girls Clubs have represented an important partnership with the Foundation benefitting many of Utah’s low-income, at-risk youth in communities from Brigham City and Price to Ogden, Salt Lake, Provo, Murray and Sandy. With support totaling more than $8.6 million, grants have assisted these clubs in offering mentoring, tutoring, child care, sports and life-skills programs, and more.

Spence Eccles has coupled his passion for helping youth succeed with the Foundation’s grants to help build quality facilities, train caring staff and provide program support. “There’s no greater investment we can make than in the youth of our communities,” he says, “especially the kids who need our support to make positive choices in their lives. The Boys & Girls Clubs are doing just that!”

The Foundation is proud of its long-held tradition of helping thousands of Boys & Girls Club youth set goals, develop leadership skills, succeed in school, make healthy choices and become good citizens.

Today, Spence Eccles serves as Honorary Co-Chair of the Clubs’ “Great Futures” Capital Campaign for new facilities in Salt Lake City’s westside neighborhood and a much-needed clubhouse expansion in Murray.

The Foundation’s $1.5 million grant for the campaign has led the way as it moves closer to reaching its funding goal.

Through his personal involvement and early leadership of the Clubs’ capital campaigns,

COMMUNITY 30-YEAR LEGACY PARTNERSHIPS

Social service and community organizations of every size have looked to the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation for philanthropic support for decades. The Foundation's partnerships with the organizations listed below have spanned at least 30 years, enabling outstanding professionals to address needs in areas ranging from hunger, homelessness and substance abuse to disability services, community revitalization and more. Long-term Foundation support has also enriched community gathering places as varied as Utah's Hogle Zoo, Utah Food Bank, The Road Home, Neighborhood House, the National Ability Center, Junior League, YMCA and YWCA, among many others.

LEGACY PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

UTAH YOUTH VILLAGE

Building on its tradition of support for Utah Youth Village that began in 1983, the Foundation awarded a grant of $200,000 in 2000 to support its "Families First" initiative, providing in-home parenting communication skills for families. Through the years, the Foundation's grants totaling more than $3.3 million have provided vital funds helping ensure the success of the Village's programs, including those earmarked to assist in offering residential and in-home treatment programming and scholarships for at-risk youth; for acquiring, remodeling and furnishing its group homes; for the beautification of its facilities and grounds; and to sponsor its annual fundraising events.

YWCA UTAH

Beginning with the personal interest of Dolores Eccles, the YWCA Utah was among the first recipients of a Foundation grant. It remains today a strong partner in providing critical support services for women and children in the community. The Foundation's grants have included those of $1 million or more for construction of the Lolie Eccles Early Education Center, as well as the Centennial Campaign to expand facilities for its Crisis Center and Residence for Women and Children. Annual grants from the Foundation have also provided for shelter services, strategic planning and general programming, all aimed at assisting the YWCA in its mission to "eliminate racism and empower women." Since 2008, the Foundation has been pleased to sponsor the keynote speaker for the YWCA's annual LeaderLuncheon honoring outstanding women in the community – an event that now attracts an audience numbering nearly 2,000.

Through the years ...

1983 NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE

Early grants from the Foundation in 1983-84 helped Neighborhood House establish its day care programs for toddlers and seniors, setting the stage for a tradition of ongoing, annual support for its programs. Today, Spence Eccles serves as Honorary Chair of the Neighborhood House "Open More Doors" capital campaign for a new $15 million facility to ensure it continues to provide the services families have counted on for more than 35 years.

1990 SPECIAL OLYMPICS UTAH

The Foundation's decades-long tradition of support for Special Olympics Utah began with grants for its outreach programs that provide opportunities for children and adults with special needs to participate in enriching athletic competitions. Said a 2017 volunteer coach, "Thank you for believing in Special Olympics Utah for so many years ... helping fulfill the dream of the founders to make a difference in the lives of this special population."

1992 BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The Foundation's grant of $100,000 to the Boy Scouts of America-Great Salt Lake Council funded the construction of showers and dressing rooms at Camp Tracy. For more than 25 years, the Foundation's support has assisted Utah's various Boy Scout Councils with programming, and has helped build facilities benefitting youth statewide.

ENVISION UTAH

Anyone who has ever visited the Pack Creek Ranch near Moab, Utah, understands why it was the birthplace of Envision Utah more than 30 years ago. In that magnificent spot at the foothills of the LaSal Mountains – once home to Ute Indians, early trappers and Mormon settlers – Spence Eccles was among two dozen young civic leaders who gathered in 1987 to address concerns about Utah’s future growth and development. The “grassroots” planted there created the Coalition for Utah’s Future ... which became Envision Utah. Since then, state and community leaders, side-by-side with the public-at-large, have been key to its success. The statewide priorities that were developed are now at the forefront in decision-making in areas ranging from water use, air quality, transportation, agriculture and education to energy, housing, public lands, recreation, the economy and more. Throughout, the vital support of the Foundation, now totaling nearly $6 million, has led the way in these efforts to ensure Utah remains thoughtful and proactive in planning for its future. Thirty years after that initial gathering, Spence Eccles still serves as Co-chair of Envision Utah with Utah Governor Gary Herbert.

THE ROAD HOME

With grants totaling more than $12.5 million, the decades-long partnership of the Foundation with The Road Home has helped it provide vital warmth, shelter and supportive services to countless homeless individuals and families in the Salt Lake Valley.

While addressing these needs presents ongoing challenges, the community has been fortunate to be able to count on The Road Home’s dedicated staff and volunteers to stretch every donated dollar to its limits to help those who find themselves on the streets, often facing Utah’s sub-zero winter temperatures and harsh conditions. The Foundation remains focused on tackling the multitude of issues that contribute to homelessness in Utah. Among its past grants was $1.5 million in 2007 to assist in rehabilitating a former hotel to become Palmer Court, an apartment complex providing long-term housing and support for the homeless, and $1.5 million in 2014 for major renovation of the Midvale Community Shelter.

UTAH'S HOGLE ZOO

When Utah's Hogle Zoo celebrated the Grand Opening of its new and expanded facilities in 2012, it culminated a multi-year, public-private campaign to fund significant improvements benefitting zoo residents and visitors alike. The Foundation's $1 million grant for the campaign – earmarked for its Rocky Shores Arctic Exhibit – enables the zoo to showcase sea lions, seals, otters and polar bears. Since 1988, the Foundation has awarded ongoing support for the zoo's programs and facilities, playing a part in its growth and development as one of Utah's most-visited attractions.

LEGAL AID SOCIETY OF SALT LAKE

For more than 30 years, the Foundation has provided annual assistance to the Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake, partnering with Executive Director Stewart Ralphs and his team to provide free legal representation for low-income individuals in family law cases and for those needing protective orders. This longstanding partnership – with Foundation grants now totaling more than $1.5 million – continues to help adults and children who are the victims of domestic violence to receive the legal help they need, regardless of their financial circumstances.

UTAH FOOD BANK

When Utahns come together to help those who are hungry, the Foundation is with them ... as it has been for 36 years! With grants totaling more than $6 million, the Foundation has been proud to assist the Utah Food Bank and to partner with many individuals, businesses and other generous supporters in meeting this vital need. The Foundation's grants have supported not only the Food Bank's statewide programs, but also facilities and warehouse expansion, the Elderly Outreach Program, Lifecare Services for those with disabilities, and more. Says Spence Eccles, "Absolutely no child should go to bed hungry in our state!"

1996 BOYS & GIRLS CLUBS OF GREATER SALT LAKE

A $240,000 grant to the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Salt Lake led the way for upgrades in the 1990s to the Sugarhouse and Capitol West facilities serving underprivileged youth.

1997 HUMANE SOCIETY OF UTAH

Dolores Eccles with her spaniels in the 1940s

Since 1997, the Foundation's ongoing support for the Humane Society of Utah has carried on the interest of its founders, helping fund veterinarian services, facilities, a Mobile Adoption Unit, its Humane Education Program, animal rescues, sponsorships of its annual "Wags to Wishes" Gala, and more.

1998 RAPE RECOVERY CENTER

By 1998, the Foundation had already been supporting the Rape Recovery Center for more than a decade, providing support for its healing services, counseling and victim assistance programs, as well as community education and rape prevention initiatives. In addition to general operating support and direct client services, the Foundation has also awarded funds to assist the organization in expanding its fundraising programs, broadening its base of support for the future.

1999 YMCA OF
NORTHERN UTAH

The Foundation's support through the years – including a major grant in 1998-99 – assisted the YMCA with renovations to the aging facilities at Camp Roger in Utah's High Uintas Wilderness Area. Founded in 1948, Camp Roger offers youth ages 6-17 opportunities to participate in activities ranging from archery to campfire cooking and sleeping under the stars, along with specialty camps focusing on horseback riding, the arts and more. The Foundation's ongoing support for the YMCA also provides key funding for its afterschool programs for at-risk youth in Ogden, Utah.

2002 2002 OLYMPIC
WINTER GAMES

On January 8, 2002, Foundation Chairman & CEO Spencer F. Eccles helped unveil the 130-ft. Olympic Cauldron at Rice-Eccles Stadium, funded as part of the Foundation's landmark multi-million grant for the 2002 Olympic Winter Games. The Cauldron was lit one month later by the 1980 Gold Medal USA Hockey Team during the Opening Ceremonies, which also benefitted from the Foundation's $20 million in support for the Games. Spence Eccles served as a torchbearer in his home town of Ogden, Utah, as the flame traveled from Olympia, Greece, to Salt Lake City. For his key role in the success of the games, he was awarded the IOC's highest honor – the Pierre de Coubertin Gold Medal Award, named for the founder of the Olympic Games.

2004 WASATCH COMMUNITY GARDENS

Longtime support for Wasatch Community Gardens has focused on its Youth Gardening Program, fostering future citizens who grow and eat healthy, local food. The Foundation's 2004 grant also included funding for a greenhouse/learning center, and it continues to support the Garden's sustainability and healthy living programs.

2008 THE CHILDREN'S CENTER

A $1 million last-dollar challenge grant from the Foundation played a key role in the success of The Children's Center's campaign to renovate the historic Oquirrh School in Salt Lake City to become the new home for its programs serving families of children with emotional/behavioral issues.

2010 ST. ANNE'S CENTER/ LANTERN HOUSE

With a $1 million challenge grant, the Foundation joined with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints as the lead-gift donors "jump-starting" the capital campaign to build Lantern House, a much-needed new homeless shelter to better serve the Ogden area. Dedicated in June 2015, the facility includes more than 300 beds for men, women and families, a soup kitchen and donations warehouse for those in need.

2011 JUNIOR LEAGUE OF SALT LAKE CITY

Building on a 20-year tradition of support for the Jr. League of SLC, the Foundation sponsored its “Salt to Honey” cookbook, published as a fund-raiser celebrating the League’s 80th Anniversary. Dolores Eccles was a founding member of the Jr. League of Ogden and a Sustaining Member of the Junior League of Salt Lake City.

2012 UNITED WAY OF SALT LAKE

The Foundation’s $1 million grant, in partnership with other philanthropic community leaders, led the way for the implementation of United Way of Salt Lake’s “Changing the Odds” Campaign to establish neighborhood centers and supportive education and healthcare programs in low-income neighborhoods.

2013 NATIONAL ABILITY CENTER

The National Ability Center in Park City provides enriching programs for individuals with disabilities to experience confidence-building adaptive outdoor sport and recreation programs. The Foundation has been a long-time sponsor of its Adapted Equestrian Program, and in 2013 was among the first sponsors of its “Saluting Our Heroes” luncheon event, an annual mainstay of its fundraising efforts.

2014 VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA

The Foundation's $1 million lead grant helped Volunteers of America build its Youth Resource Center for homeless youth near 900 South 400 West in Salt Lake City, where they receive services ranging from a shower, food or laundry facilities, to counseling, job training, support groups and legal assistance. For more than 20 years, the Foundation has partnered with VOA in support of its homeless outreach programs and those addressing domestic violence.

2016 HABITAT FOR HUMANITY OF SALT LAKE VALLEY

The Foundation supported Habitat for Humanity's "Field of Dreams" project in 2016, transforming an abandoned baseball field in a blighted area of Kearns into 20 energy-efficient twin-homes for low-income families. The Foundation has provided more than $1 million to Habitat for Humanity statewide to assist with home-building programs to increase the availability of affordable housing.

2017 FRIENDS OF TRACY AVIARY

Continuing a partnership that began in 1996, the Foundation awarded a grant in 2017 to help Tracy Aviary fund its new Kea Exhibit. Earlier grants assisted with such projects as the Tropical Building, renovation of the Chase Mill, exhibits for its Condors, Hawks, Vultures and others, and its overall master plan. All have helped bring the Aviary renewed vitality and success in the past decade.

Native American Culture

Folklore suggests that the name “Utah” is derived from the name of the Ute Indian tribe, purported to mean “people of the mountains” in the Ute language. For more than 25 years, the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation has remained committed to supporting members of the Ute Tribe and other American Indian tribes whose reservations are within Utah’s borders. Representing the descendants of our state’s original inhabitants, these include five major tribes with strong cultural legacies that continue to flourish in our state today, including the Ute, Diné (Navajo), Paiute, Goshute and Shoshone.

For nearly 25 years, the Foundation has partnered with a number of nonprofit organizations that provide critical support to low-income Native Americans in the areas of education and health, as well as cultural programming. Totalling more than $3.5 million, grants from the Foundation have helped meet the needs of many American Indians in partnership with organizations such as:

American Indian Services (AIS), which provides scholarships for Native American students to attend a Utah college or university. Spence Eccles is a longtime member of the AIS National Advisory Board.

Adopt-a-Native Elder, which not only hosts its annual Navajo Rug Show and Sale benefitting the Elders who live the traditional lifestyle of the Navajo People, but also preserves their treasured art forms such as weaving, jewelry-making and basketry. Its volunteers serve more than 15,000 people including more than 550 Elders who live in remote areas on the reservation.

Utah Navajo Health System, which provides services, equipment and programming through its healthcare facilities at Montezuma Creek; and Ya'at'eeh Keshmish (Navajo Santa), which distributes clothing, blankets, food, toys and school supplies to Utah's Navajo Nation, as well as education-focused outreach programs.

The Foundation is honored to partner with these and other organizations to foster the progress and success of Utah's Native American residents who are part of the fabric of our state's history ... and its future!

COMMUNITY PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS

For more than 20 years, and in more than 70 communities throughout Utah, the Foundation has been proud to join with grassroots, citizen-led groups to improve or expand the parks and playgrounds so vital to their health and well-being. From Snowville and Blanding to Enterprise and Vernal

... and in towns like Lynndyl, Mayfield, Teasdale and Torrey where populations may be less than a few thousand ... the life of these communities is enriched for families and individuals of all ages. Here, they have opportunities to gather and celebrate the irreplaceable bonds of "community." Says Foundation President & COO Lisa Eccles, "Parks are often the 'anchor' in the life of small communities, and we love to help them grow and thrive."

Education

Among the greatest priorities for the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation is ensuring excellence in higher education throughout the State of Utah. During their lifetimes, both George and Dolores Eccles were actively involved with Utah's colleges and universities. Their goal: to make available to Utah's students the highest quality higher education. Their passion for fostering extraordinary educational opportunities lives on through the Foundation's support of every college and university in the state. Always, first and foremost, it is focused on the students. Whether grants are designated for scholarships and facilities, investments in the quality of faculty, or support for curricula, libraries, athletics, research opportunities and more, the directors remain committed to educating this generation of Utah's students – and those to come – to ensure they reach their educational goals, make the most of their talents, and provide the leadership to keep Utah and America strong.

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH DAVID ECCLES SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Named in 1991 in honor and memory of pioneering Utah industrialist and entrepreneur David Eccles – father of George S. Eccles – the University of Utah’s David Eccles School of Business remains a focus of the Foundation’s philanthropy. Grants have supported not only student scholarships, faculty excellence and innovative teaching initiatives, but also the transformation of the school’s physical campus.

What began in 2000 with the opening of the C. Roland Christensen Center led to the 2006 announcement of the school’s campaign to create a new “David Eccles School of Business campus,” replacing 1960s-era buildings with state-of-the-art classrooms and innovative learning spaces. The Foundation’s $17.6 million lead gift set the campaign on a course for success that has continued for more than a decade. Today, at the heart of the campus is the school’s flagship, 189,000-sq. ft. Spencer Fox Eccles Business Building, which opened in 2011. It was joined in 2016 by the innovative Lassonde Studios; in 2017 by the Thomas S. Monson Center, home to the school’s Kem C. Gardner Policy Institute; and in 2018 by the Robert H. and Katharine B. Garff Executive Education Building.

Recently, a landmark $20 million grant – funded jointly with $10 million from the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation and the Marriner S. Eccles Foundation, with matching funds from the Charles Koch Foundation – established the Marriner S. Eccles Institute for Economics and Quantitative Analysis, named for George Eccles’ eldest brother, the former chairman of the Federal Reserve, the nation’s independent central bank founded in 1913. The institute will attract world-class faculty and researchers and enable outstanding students to pursue specialized economics degrees with innovative studies focused on econometric and data analysis, game theory, and wide-ranging economic thought.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT OF UTAH

Through its long-time partnership with Junior Achievement of Utah (JA) – and grants totaling nearly $4.5 million since the mid-1980s – the Foundation’s major support has been essential to JA’s continued success in partnership with Utah’s schools. Through its in-school programs and those at Spencer F. Eccles Junior Achievement City, programs run by staff and volunteers inspire and prepare Utah’s youth to succeed in a global economy, empowering them to “own their economic success,” plan for their futures and become leaders and entrepreneurs.

George Eccles was widely known for his commitment to educate Utah’s youth about financial literacy, and his partnership with Jr. Achievement to meet that goal is one that Spence Eccles and the Foundation have generously – and fervently – continued ever since, expanding the programs statewide to reach youth throughout Utah.

To whom it may concern,
My 5th grade visited Junior Achievement City on October 25th, 2016. We would like to thank you for helping make this a great day.
Thank you for donating the supplies to City Hall that we needed like the microphone that I said the mayor speeches on. It was very generous.
Our company was successful and we fully paid back the bank. We also earned a good profit.

Through the years ...

1983 GUADALUPE SCHOOL

Among the Foundation’s early grant recipients was the Guadalupe School, receiving support for kindergarten classes for low-income, at-risk youth. The Foundation remains one of its most loyal and generous annual funding partners, with gifts totaling more than $3.5 million to assist not only with its In-Home, Toddler Beginnings and Preschool programs, but also a $1 million grant to help fund construction of facilities for these programs at its new school building in Rose Park, Utah.

1989 UNIVERSITY OF UTAH ATHLETICS

In 1989, Dolores Eccles was delighted to participate in the Grand Opening of the George S. Eccles Tennis Center at the University of Utah. The Foundation’s support for the facility reflected George Eccles’ lifelong passion for tennis and his longtime friendship with David L. Freed, who chaired the center’s fundraising campaign. The Foundation also funded a scholarship in Mr. Freed’s name as part of the campaign. With the recent addition of its Spence Eccles Outdoor Courts, the facility provides a state-of-the-art venue for the University’s PAC-12 men’s and women’s tennis teams and their matches while also serving the wider University and Salt Lake area communities.

GEORGE S. ECCLES BUSINESS BUILDING AND LECTURE SERIES, UTAH STATE UNIVERSITY

Nearly 50 years ago, a generous personal contribution from George and Dolores Eccles enabled Utah State University to construct its George S. Eccles Business Building, dedicated in 1970. Since then, the Foundation has carried on its namesakes' legacy of support for business education at USU, including a $2.5 million grant in 2012 to assist in funding the renovation of the original building and expansion of facilities for the school's newly named Jon M. Huntsman School of Business. The Foundation's support for many decades also made possible the annual George S. Eccles Distinguished Lecture Series, bringing the campus and community together with outstanding national leaders from business and industry.

KUED CHANNEL-7, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

From support for its current weekly news broadcast of "The Hinckley Report" hosted by Jason Perry, to monthly gubernatorial news conferences and locally-produced documentaries and feature stories, KUED Channel-7 has been one of the Foundation's longtime partners in providing quality television programming for the people of Utah and the Intermountain West. Foundation grants during the past 30 years, now totaling more than $3.5 million, have contributed to the success of the PBS-affiliated station, which makes its home in the Dolores Doré Eccles Broadcast Center, named in recognition of a personal gift of $5.5 million from Mrs. Eccles in 1993 for its construction. The Foundation continues to assist KUED's production staff in creating award-winning features and documentaries.

WESTMINSTER COLLEGE

In 1972, Dolores Eccles was the first woman named to the Westminster College Board of Trustees. She took a personal interest in the success of its students, establishing the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Scholarships for top scholars at Westminster – a prestigious scholarship program the Foundation has continued to support through the years with grants now totaling more than $10 million. Other highlights of the Foundation's partnerships with Westminster include $2 million in 1994 for its Giovale Library; $5.5 million in 2000 as a lead gift for the Dolores Doré Eccles Health, Wellness and Athletic Center; $1 million in 2010 toward construction of the Meldrum Science Center; and, most recently, $500,000 toward the expansion of its fine arts facilities through the addition of the Florence J. Gillmor School of Music.

NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM OF UTAH, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

With a $5.5 million “last-dollar lead challenge grant,” the Foundation helped jump-start the success of the Natural History Museum of Utah’s campaign for the Rio Tinto Center, its state-of-the-art home that opened in 2011. Wrapped in copper mined at Rio Tinto/Kennecott’s Bingham Canyon Mine, the award-winning structure welcomes more than 250,000 annual visitors and enables its scientists to care for its more than 1.5 million objects. Through sponsorships of key traveling exhibitions, along with the involvement of University Trustee Lisa Eccles on its Advisory Board, the Foundation maintains a close philanthropic partnership with the museum that dates back more than three decades.

SNOW COLLEGE

When Snow College broke ground on the Robert M. and Joyce S. Graham Science Center in November 2015, it represented well-deserved recognition of the Grahams’ legacy of generosity as members of the Eccles Foundation “family.” Robert “Bob” Graham, a 1950 Snow College graduate and Foundation board member, has long been admired as one of the college’s distinguished alumni, along with his late wife, Joyce. The Foundation’s $1.5 million grant in 2015 led the successful public-private campaign for the new state-of-the-art science center, which opened in October 2017. The Foundation’s support for Snow College, which began in 1985 with grants for scholarships, has also aided many academic programs and facilities such as the Greenwood Student Center and the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Performing Arts Center.

1994 AMERICAN INDIAN SERVICES

For more than 25 years, the Foundation has partnered with American Indian Services and its founding director, Dr. Dale Tingey, awarding more than $2 million to fund scholarships for Native American students to attend a Utah college or university of their choice. This successful program has provided students who qualify through academic merit and financial need with opportunities to gain their educations and go on to contribute to their communities.

1998 UNIVERSITY OF UTAH ATHLETICS

The Foundation’s $10 million gift provided the lead matching grant for the successful campaign to expand Rice-Eccles Stadium, strengthen the U’s athletics program, and provide the venue for the Opening and Closing Ceremonies of Utah’s highly successful 2002 Olympic Winter Games. The stadium hosted its first game on September 12, 1998.

2001 SOUTHERN UTAH UNIVERSITY

A $2 million grant supported its much-needed new student residence halls – the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Living and Learning Center. The Foundation also funds the school’s Eccles Scholarships and its annual Eccles Visiting Scholars Program, which brings extraordinary national and international scholars from a variety of disciplines who teach and lecture on the Cedar City campus.

Celebrating the University of Utah's new Spence and Cleone Eccles Football Center, August 22, 2013

2016 MARRIOTT SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT, BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

The Foundation's 2016 grant for the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles International Scholars Program marked the 15th anniversary of the establishment of these scholarships at Brigham Young University. Each year, 10 outstanding MBA students, distinguished as future leaders in the global business community, are selected for this prestigious program, enabling them to pursue a Global Management Certificate and enjoy international, hands-on experiences as they explore worldwide career opportunities.

2017 COLLEGE OF SOCIAL & BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

The Foundation joined the public-private funding partnership to replace the University of Utah's major classroom building – the 1950s-era Orson Spencer Hall – with the state-of-the-art Carolyn and Kem Gardner Commons, which opened in fall 2018. Named for the active U alumni and benefactors who provided the lead gift for the building, this new, contemporary teaching facility's 33 classrooms will benefit every U student, and its George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Auditorium will provide a new campus venue for classes, guest lecturers and special events. As home to the College of Social & Behavioral Science, it will also include the Hinckley Institute of Politics, Emma Eccles Jones Student Welcome Center, additional centers/institutes, a retail store and student dining.

THE UNIQUE GIFT OF ECCLES HOUSE

On July 18, 2000, a garden party celebrated the gift of the former home of George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles to the University of Utah. Located at 1525 Penrose Drive in Salt Lake City – adjacent to the University’s campus – the home was donated to the University by Mrs. Eccles and the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. Eccles called the stately, historic residence their home for more than 40 years. Designed by prominent Utah architect Georgius Young Cannon, the home and its gardens, in the heart of the Federal Heights neighborhood, encompass more than three acres. It was originally constructed in 1936 for Julian N. and Edith H. Bamberger, who resided there with their two daughters until Mr. and Mrs. Eccles bought the residence in 1953.

In the philanthropic spirit that personified Mr. and Mrs. Eccles during their lifetimes, their treasured home and its contents were bequeathed to the University in 1994. Their vision for the future of Eccles House was for it to continue as a place of beauty to be enjoyed by members of the Salt Lake City and University communities.

The Foundation provided for the home and its grounds to be refurbished and renewed under the direction of architect Max Smith and the firm of MJSA Architects, and landscape designer Garr Campbell. Many of the antique furnishings of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles were restored and returned to the home, along with selected pieces from their collections of fine art gathered through years of traveling throughout the world.

Beginning in 2000, Eccles House served for several years as the residence of the University's vice president for Health Sciences. Today, it provides a warm and welcoming home for the President of the University of Utah and a gracious social and entertainment setting enjoyed by University faculty, staff, students, alumni, friends and distinguished campus visitors.

Health and Wellness

Volunteer leadership and support for Utah's health and wellness communities were hallmarks of George and Dolores Eccles. Through the Foundation, their positive impact on the quality and availability of health care and programs providing healthy living for Utahns has continued to flourish. Grants enrich patient care and promote good health through organizations, hospitals, clinics and programs throughout the state. With each grant awarded, the legacy of George and Dolores Eccles furthers the life-saving healthcare education, research and patient care made possible through their generosity.

PRIMARY CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL INTERMOUNTAIN HEALTHCARE

Three decades ago, in 1988, Primary Children's Hospital marked a landmark moment in providing pediatric healthcare when the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation announced its $1 million grant for construction of its facility adjacent to University of Utah Hospital on Salt Lake City's east bench. Dolores Eccles was joined by her nephew and fellow Foundation board member, Spence Eccles, at the groundbreaking for the new hospital – a moment that launched the Foundation's decades-long partnership with Primary Children's and the Intermountain Healthcare team.

As a 36-year member of the Intermountain Healthcare Board of Trustees, Spence Eccles understands the challenges and opportunities Utah faces in the healthcare arena. His advocacy has contributed to the growing excellence of programs throughout Intermountain Healthcare, including Primary Children's. Most recently, a 2009 grant of $3 million from the Foundation for the new 240,000-sq. ft. George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Primary Children's Outpatient Pavilion launched yet another new era of expanded pediatric care in the Intermountain West.

LEGACY PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

RONALD McDONALD HOUSE CHARITIES OF THE INTERMOUNTAIN AREA

Beginning with a grant in 1987 to assist in constructing Salt Lake City's first Ronald McDonald House, the Foundation has been a supporter of its programs and facilities providing a "home away from home" for families of hospitalized children. For many years, the Foundation has provided the Presenting Sponsorship grant for the organization's successful annual fundraising gala, including support for its Share-a-Night program to assist families with the costs of their stays at the house. In addition, the Foundation has provided generous support for the campaigns enabling the Ronald McDonald House to renovate and expand its facilities to better serve families in need.

ALLIANCE HOUSE

Since 1988 – just one year after the founding of Alliance House – the Foundation's funding partnership has assisted this nonprofit clubhouse in providing compassionate, supportive programs for adults with severe or persistent mental illness. Foundation grants have supported not only its member education programs, but also its annual "Milestones Breakfast" celebrating members' successes, and capital improvements to its facilities. With clubhouse members and staff working together toward common goals – and the partnership of dedicated contributors assisting with vital operating support – Alliance House continues to foster the hope and opportunities needed for recovery from serious mental illness.

Through the years . . .

1982 AMERICAN RED CROSS – UTAH REGION

The Foundation has partnered with the Red Cross in Utah, awarding nearly $2 million since 1982 for disaster preparedness and volunteer recognition through its "Heroes" events. The Foundation's annual grants continue to help ensure Utahns are prepared and supported when disasters strike.

1998 FRIENDS FOR SIGHT

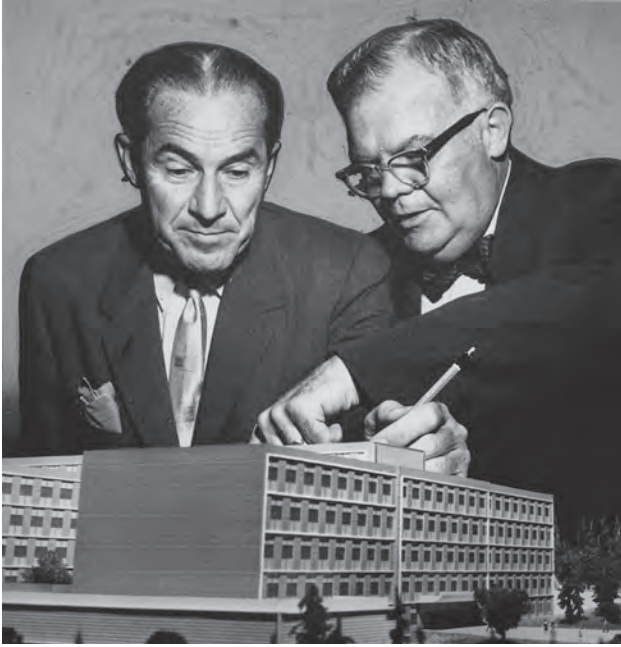

In 1998, the Foundation began sponsoring the organization's annual "People of Vision" Awards Gala, generating critical operating funding for its sight-saving programs. Building on a tradition of support that began in the 1970s with the personal support of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles, the Foundation provides ongoing support for vision screening programs made possible through Friends for Sight.

1999 HUNTSMAN CANCER INSTITUTE, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH HEALTH

The Foundation's partnership with the Huntsman Cancer Institute began early, with a $1 million grant in 1999 to help build the research and patient care facility, including the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Auditorium. Since that time, grants have also supported prevention and patient care programs focused especially on women's health, including $1 million for the Cleone Peterson Eccles Breast Health Center at Huntsman Cancer Hospital.

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH HEALTH

George Eccles and architect B. E. Brazier review plans for the new University of Utah Medical Center in 1961. George was a member of the fund drive committee that raised $4 million from the private sector – the first successful drive of its kind for a public medical center. Patients were transferred to the new building from the old County Hospital in 1965.

Fostering the excellence of University of Utah Health and University Hospital was a high priority of George and Dolores Eccles. For more than 50 years, patients, students, healthcare professionals and individuals and families throughout the Intermountain West have benefitted not only from their personal generosity, but also from the ongoing support of the Foundation, which has contributed nearly $40 million since 1982 to areas such as Human Genetics, Medicine, Nursing, Orthopaedics, Ophthalmology, Pharmacy, the Spencer S. Eccles Health Sciences Library and University Hospital, to name only a few.

In the 1960s, Mr. and Mrs. Eccles were among the earliest to support construction of the then-new School of Medicine and University Hospital on the University of Utah campus. A decade later, they contributed $1 million when George served as chairman of the campaign to fund the hospital's expansion. In 1986, the Foundation's $17 million grant, in partnership with the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, played a key role in the creation of the George and Dolores Eccles Institute of Human Genetics, and a landmark grant of $7 million in 2001-02 made possible construction of the Eccles Critical Care Pavilion – a further reflection of the Foundation's ongoing commitment to ensuring the finest in healthcare for all Utahns.

In addition, the Foundation's grants for endowed chairs in the College of Pharmacy, Department of Orthopaedics, School of Medicine and Eccles Genetics Institute, which honors Nobel Prize-winner Dr. Mario Capecchi, have supported the recruitment and retention of world-class faculty-physicians.

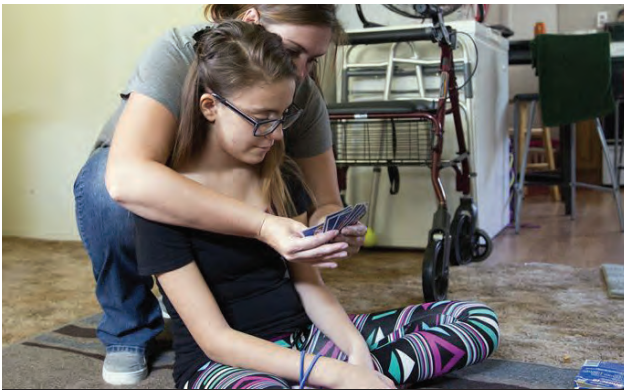

COMMUNITY NURSING SERVICE

From hospice care and bereavement support to services for the homebound elderly or those lacking insurance coverage, the Foundation's grants to Community Nursing Services (CNS) for more than 30 years have strengthened its ability to make a positive difference in the lives of countless Utahns of all ages and circumstances. Support from the Foundation has also assisted CNS with improvements to its facilities and with sponsorships for its annual "Celebration of Art & Soup" fundraising events that generate vital dollars for charity care.

NATIONAL MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS SOCIETY, UTAH-SO. IDAHO CHAPTER

The Foundation had been active for just three years when it awarded its first grant to assist the Multiple Sclerosis Society in Utah-Southern Idaho. Since that time, annual grants have provided funding for a wide range of its programs, from patient and family education materials and summer camps to counseling, physical therapy, respite care, and ongoing wellness programs helping patients stay physically active, mentally healthy and socially connected. The Foundation has also provided sponsorships for the society's annual "Dinner of Champions" fundraising events.

2002 JOHN A. MORAN EYE CENTER, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH HEALTH

The Foundation's $2.5 million multi-year grant provided key support for construction of a new John A. Moran Eye Center at the University of Utah, enabling it to expand and enhance its world-class patient care and research. The Foundation's continuing support has included grants for its Center for Translational Medicine, focused on Age-Related Macular Degeneration, as well as its outreach programs for those fighting blindness in rural areas, and its Patient Support Program for individuals with impaired sight.

2007 IN HONOR OF THOMAS H. CAINE, M.D. INTERNAL MEDICINE, UNIVERSITY OF UTAH HEALTH

The Foundation marked its 25th year of support for the teaching, research and patient care provided by Thomas H. Caine, M.D. at University Hospital and the School of Medicine. With dedication and compassion, Dr. Caine provided exceptional care for scores of loyal and grateful patients for more than 50 years ... and made house calls throughout. He also inspired generations of medical students to follow in his footsteps through his remarkable example of "old fashioned, personal medicine."

One of the most beloved physicians and faculty members in the University's history, Dr. Caine retired in 2014. That year, Spence Eccles reflected on the impact of his long-time friend and physician, noting that "I trust him with my life." Said colleague John Holbrook, M.D., "If you were around Tom, you learned how to treat people well, how to be patient and kind." His wife of nearly 60 years, Mary Ellen, added, "Tom is always willing to give people hope. He never closes the door on hope."

2009 PEOPLE'S HEALTH CLINIC

The Foundation marked 10 years of assisting the People's Health Clinic in providing health care at no charge to low-income residents of Summit and Wasatch Counties who have no health insurance. In 1999, the Foundation's $100,000 grant helped the clinic establish its first facility in a mobile unit. Today, the People's Health Clinic successfully offers its services at clinics in both Park City and Heber City, through an affiliation with the Heber Valley Hospital.

2012 AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

With the Foundation's $2 million leadership grant, and land donated by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the American Cancer Society publicly launched its capital campaign in September 2012 to create the Salt Lake City Hope Lodge – the only one in the Western U.S. The success of the $18 million project was evident just three years later when all involved – including Campaign Chair Katie Eccles – celebrated the Grand Opening of the facility offering free lodging and support services as a “home away from home” for patients and their family members or caregivers. Today, the Hope Lodge continues to be praised by patients and the healthcare community alike for its unique combination of first-class facilities – from private suites to gardens – enriched by the compassionate services of staff and volunteers.

2013 FOURTH STREET CLINIC

For more than 25 years, annual support from the Foundation has assisted Wasatch Homeless Health Care's Fourth Street Clinic in providing its facilities and health care/pharmacy services for homeless individuals and families. In 2013, the Foundation awarded a special additional grant of $1 million to help fund the inaugural year of its new Dental Clinic. The dental care provided to homeless individuals makes a dramatic difference as "new smiles" offer the confidence to seek employment and move forward out of homelessness toward healthy, productive lives.

2015 CAMP HOBE

The Foundation's grant marked its 15th year of annual support to Camp Hobe, providing specialized summer camp programs for children and teens undergoing treatments for cancer. Also including their siblings in these camp experiences, Camp Hobe gives youth participants the opportunity to enjoy the freedom of being away from hospitals and treatments ... and "just be kids."

2017 MALIHEH FREE CLINIC

Building on its history of annual support for the Maliheh Free Clinic, the Foundation awarded $100,000 in 2017 toward the clinic's capital campaign for a new facility. The improved facility doubles the size of the clinic, enabling it to reach even more people in need as its all-volunteer medical staff provides services at no charge for uninsured and low-income individuals and families in the Salt Lake Valley.

1985: AN UNMATCHED GIFT

Eccles Genetics Institute

Spence Eccles, Dolores Eccles and U President Chase Peterson at the Eccles Genetics Institute dedication in 1990

“... a lasting contribution to understanding human genetics ... and an unmatched gift to the future of medicine.”

Chase N. Peterson,
President, University of Utah describing the Foundation's grant for the George and Dolores Eccles Institute of Human Genetics November 27, 1990

In 1985 – more than five years before the George and Dolores Eccles Institute of Human Genetics would be dedicated – the directors of the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation awarded a multi-year commitment of $16 million to the University of Utah to foster remarkable progress in unlocking the mysteries of genetics. In partnership with the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, the funds not only helped construct the innovative human genetics research facility on the University campus, but also furthered a “unique interdisciplinary approach to genetics research” through support for programming and operations.

Fast forward more than two decades to 2007. Dr. Mario Capecchi, Distinguished Professor of Human Genetics and Biology at the University's Eccles Institute of Human Genetics, was awarded a Nobel Prize for his pioneering research. In recognition of Dr. Capecchi as the University's first Nobel Prize winner, the Foundation awarded $2 million in 2008 establishing two endowed chairs in his honor. The chairs salute Dr. Capecchi and his team's extraordinary discoveries in gene targeting that have given the world new and powerful methods for studying and understanding the role of genes. As well, they are investments in future Nobel Laureates, fueling Dr. Capecchi's passion to recruit the brightest young scientists from throughout the nation and world, furthering their scientific inquiry to benefit mankind throughout the future.

Even before Dr. Capecchi's Nobel Prize brought international attention to the Eccles Genetics Institute, its remarkable place of honor in advancing genetics research was already recognized widely in the worldwide scientific community. In the labs and classrooms of world-class faculty researchers such as Ray White and Ray Gesteland – early co-chairs of the U’s Department of Human Genetics – there were remarkable successes in areas from gene mapping and the development of DNA markers to then-new areas such as DNA sequencing.

Dr. Mario Capecchi, Distinguished Professor of Human Genetics and Biology, the University of Utah's first Nobel Prize winner, 2007

Today, many people take for granted the remarkable progress in genetics research and its impact on patient care. The Foundation takes pride in the part it has played in uncovering the keys to our past that so greatly impact our future!

Preservation and Conservation

The George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation has awarded more than $62 million throughout Utah to assist in preserving and protecting thousands of acres of valued natural lands and open spaces, and to support restoration and revitalization projects statewide that give new life to dozens of treasured places with historic significance. In and around small communities and major cities alike – whether focused on forests, wetlands, rivers and streams, farmlands, National Parks or open landscapes – the Foundation’s grants help ensure that future generations can enjoy Utah’s extraordinary beauty. As well, the Foundation’s grants ensure that many of the state’s historic places, from well-known landmarks to little-known barns, homes, railroad stations, theaters, schools, churches and more, come back to life to be enjoyed by citizens and visitors for generations to come.

“Wilderness is not a luxury but a necessity of the human spirit.”

THE NATURE CONSERVANCY IN UTAH

Through its partnership with The Nature Conservancy in Utah since the early 1980s, the Foundation has awarded more than $21.8 million in support of numerous campaigns and initiatives fostering the critical work of protecting our state's natural lands, its vital habitats and waters, and its wondrous landscapes. Building on a 30-plus-year legacy of support that began with personal gifts from George and Dolores Eccles, the Foundation continues to invest more than $1 million annually in the Conservancy's impactful initiatives.

Through the dedication and hard work of The Nature Conservancy's Utah staff, board members, volunteers and donors, it has helped protect more than 1.2 million acres of public and private land throughout the state for plants, animals and people, from the Great Salt Lake and the Bear River in Northern Utah to Dugout Ranch in Southern Utah ... and many places in between.

The Foundation is pleased to be a catalyst for preservation initiatives, and to help the Conservancy build on its progress to date, preserving and protecting places that are among the most incredibly beautiful landscapes anywhere in the nation. It is heartening to know that in fostering the success of The Nature Conservancy in Utah, the opportunities for all Utahns to enjoy the wonders of our state are deeply enriched today ... as they will be throughout the future.

PRESERVATION AND CONSERVATION 30-YEAR LEGACY PARTNERSHIPS

More than three decades ago, few nonprofit organizations existed in Utah with a defined focus on preserving and protecting Utah's vast natural lands and resources along with its historic places and traditions. While today there are many such organizations, three led the way: the American West Heritage Center, The Nature Conservancy in Utah and the Utah Heritage Foundation, now re-named Preservation Utah.

The George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation has been proud to partner with these three organizations for more than 30 years, and shares their confidence that even greater success in meeting their goals and challenges lies ahead as, together, we work to ensure that the natural beauty and significant history of our state remain as vital for future generations as they are today.

In 2017, the Foundation was pleased to cap off funding secured through a widely-publicized campaign – led by Utah Open Lands in partnership with Park City citizens and other private donors – to secure a conservation easement preserving Bonanza Flat. The 1,350-acre parcel of undeveloped backcountry in the upper elevations of the Wasatch Mountains joins Big Cottonwood Canyon with Park City and Wasatch Mountain State Park. A vital watershed for the area, it is also a popular recreation area with open spaces, trails and lakes that will now be maintained and enjoyed for generations to come.

LEGACY PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

AMERICAN WEST HERITAGE CENTER

Since 1984, the Foundation has assisted the American West Heritage Center in Logan, Utah, which began as the Festival of the American West at Utah State University (USU). In the late 1990s, Foundation funding assisted it in moving from the USU campus to Logan's Jensen Living History Farm, and it has continued to receive the Foundation's support for programming as well as its outdoor amphitheater, additional acreage and general operations. The center offers not only its annual festival, but also education programs, camps and events for area residents and visitors alike to explore the diverse cultures of the West that shaped life in the Cache Valley.

PRESERVATION UTAH

As Preservation Utah's longtime partner, the Foundation has helped communities preserve Utah's heritage in remarkable ways. Among restored structures statewide – from opera houses and libraries to school buildings, churches, courthouses and more – is historic Ogden High School, built in 1937 as a Works Progress Administration (WPA) project during the depths of the Great Depression. The Foundation's $1 million grant in 2008 included funds to restore its marble-lined halls and iconic, art-deco auditorium, used widely by the Ogden community. The auditorium is named for Spence Eccles, Class of '52, in recognizing his generosity and involvement as a loyal, enthusiastic "Ogden Tiger!"

Through the years ...

1989 FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
PRESERVATION FOUNDATION

Among the earliest major grants from the Foundation was $250,000 in 1989 to restore the stained-glass windows at the historic, 1902 First Presbyterian Church in Salt Lake City. A decade later, the Foundation again assisted in preserving this landmark structure through a $1 million grant for its overall restoration. Family, friends and admirers filled the elegantly-restored church on Friday, March 4, 1994, for the funeral service that marked the passing – and remarkable life – of Dolores Doré Eccles.

1998 FRIENDS OF HISTORIC SPRING CITY

With leadership support of more than $300,000 from the Foundation that began in 1998, the rededication of the Spring City Old School was finally celebrated in 2017 as part of the small, central-Utah town's annual "Heritage Days." Designed by pioneer Utah architect Richard C. Watkins, the 100-year-old Victorian school building, now a community center, is part of one of Utah's most well-preserved, historic pioneer communities, listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

2001 HOLE-IN-THE-ROCK
FOUNDATION

Foundation grants have provided more than $350,000 to help restore the Bluff Fort, bringing back to life the harrowing experiences of the Hole-in-the-Rock pioneers whose legendary journey in 1879-80 became an ordeal of unparalleled difficulty.

The Foundation's $750,000 grant supported the restoration of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Cathedral, a Salt Lake City historic landmark at 300 South and 300 West. Built in 1923-25, the structure is home to the active Prophet Elias Greek Orthodox Church and its popular annual Greek Festival – a community tradition for nearly 50 years.

2015 FAIRVIEW CITY HALL AND CLEONE PETERSON ECCLES LIBRARY

Fairview's aging City Hall was constructed in 1935 as a WPA project during the nation's "New Deal." Thanks to the Foundation's funding partnership with Fairview City, the reconstructed building and adjoining new library were dedicated in summer 2015. The library is named in honor and memory of Cleone Peterson Eccles, a native of Fairview who remained devoted to her home town and its citizens.

CELEBRATING THE NATIONAL PARK FOUNDATION'S CENTENNIAL

In honor of the National Park Foundation's 100th Anniversary, the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation awarded $1 million to repair and reopen the Middle Emerald Pools Trail in Zion National Park, and to support "Every Kid in a Park," enabling 4th Graders from urban areas to experience the majesty of Utah's national parks and monuments.

The Foundation takes pride in the "Mighty Five" National Parks that call our state home and those whose foresight and dedication have protected and preserved the lands that comprise our country's treasured National Parks ... "America's Greatest Idea!"

The National Park Foundation has received a $1 million grant for upgrades to the Middle Emerald Pools Trail, donors announced Tuesday.

The grant comes from the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation and will also cover youth programs, according to a news release from the foundation.

The Middle Emeralds Pool Trail in the Grotto area near Angel's Landing has been rain and mudslide damage, the release stated. One of the most popular trails in Zion, it leads to three pools, but for the past seven years, hikers could only reach the lower and upper pools.

The project is slated to be finished in December 2019.

Up to 20,000 school children will also benefit from the grant, through programs such as the Open Outdoors for Kids initiative and Concrete to Canyons, according to the release. Both programs bring students to the park for educational field trips, according to the National Parks website.

On the list at left are some of the treasured historic places and structures that have been preserved through the Foundation's funding partnerships with nonprofits throughout the state, helping Utah's rich history remain vibrant for future generations. The communities in which these are located are shown below.

MISSION

The George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation is dedicated to carry forth the philanthropic interests and goals of its founders, supporting projects and programs that have the potential to enrich the quality of life of Utah's citizens through grants awarded in the following areas:

ARTS AND CULTURE: To ensure that world-class artistic and cultural opportunities are available for artists and audiences in Utah's cities and towns statewide;

COMMUNITY: To address social service challenges to assist those in need, while also investing in innovative opportunities and community resources for the betterment of all;

EDUCATION: To foster excellence in higher education through support for students, faculty, programs and facilities throughout our state;

HEALTH AND WELLNESS: To advance the highest quality and accessibility of health and wellness organizations, programs and services;

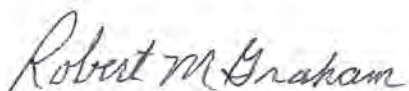

PRESERVATION AND CONSERVATION: To invest in the protection of Utah's vital lands, waters, air and natural resources, and the preservation of treasured historic places and traditions for future generations.

TREASURER'S REPORT

In the six decades since its founding – and during the 35-year period in which it has been most active – the financial affairs of the George S. and Dolores Doré Eccles Foundation have changed significantly. Funds that created the initial corpus of the Foundation, which came from the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles, have grown since that time with income from dividends, interest and capital gains from the sale of stocks and bonds. The value of the Foundation's assets based on market values as of December 31, 2017, was $591,185,676.

The Foundation's annual distributions to qualified charitable organizations have grown from $481,070 in 1982 to more than $20 million in 2017. A summary of the Foundation's charitable distributions is shown in the graph on the page to the right.

The Cynosure Group is responsible for advising and managing the Foundation's investments in cash and equivalent funds, government and corporate obligations, equities and alternative investments, which include private equity, venture capital, private credit, real estate and other private assets. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. is the custodian of the Foundation's securities.
